NEW AND MODERN STATION JUST COMPLETED BY FRISCO AT CLAREMORE

CLAREMORE, Okla., Nov. 25.—The St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Co. has just completed a new and modern station in Claremore on the site of the old frame structure, which has been moved eastward and will be used in the future as a freighthouse. The new structure is of the modern California style, with a flat roof, and is constructed of concrete and finished on the exterior in stucco style. In size the building is 38 by 140 feet, and is divided into five compartments—office, white and black waiting rooms, baggage department, and also a separate express room. Aside from these, a new departure will be initiated for Claremore, in that the new station will have the regulation depot news and collection stand. A commodious summer shed is constructed at the eastern end of the building. The interior is finished in white, with the floors and woodwork of the natural light oak mission style. Train officials state this is one of the finest county seat station on the main line of the Frisco. The erection of this structure entailed a cost of some $24,000.
This is the second new depot to be erected in Claremore within the past year, the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern having opened the doors of a new $17,000 station to the traveling public in July last.
